Kenai River Flood Hits

Alaska Town

SOLDOTNA, Alaska -(AP) — The flooding Kenai River carried at least three cabins and two floatplanes downstream near this Kenai Peninsula community Saturday. No injuries were reported

Officials said the Kenai and Moose rivers rose about seven feet above their normal levels after movement of Skilak Glacier released some water from Skilak Lake.

The Kenai dropped five to seven feet below its crest Sunday. In the vicinity of the Moose River it was open, but from Soldatna to the community of Kenai the channel was choked with ice. However the water was flowing beneath the ice.
